

APPRAISING THE ECCLES ESTATE

Officers Are Here in the Interest of the State of Utah, Meeting With the Appraisers—Property Is Valued at $4,000,000—Administrator Does Not Attempt to Fix Values on Real Estate.

At 2:30 o'clock this afternoon the official appraisers of the Second district court, Thomas Whalen, A. McFarland and C. F. Middleton, began the consideration of the valuation of the late David Eccles' estate, which is estimated by the administrator, David C. Eccles, to be about $4,000,000. The appraisers say that it will require at least a week to complete the investigation.

The board held the first meeting in the clerk's office, there being present, aside from the appraisers, the administrator of the estate, David C. Eccles, attorneys James DeVine, C. A. Boyd and Royal Eccles who have charge of the legal side of the estate. State Treasurer Jesse D. Jewkes and State Attorney A. R. Barnes. The state officers are looking after the interests of the state in the matter of placing a valuation on the holdings of the late millionaire, as the state will come into possession of a large sum of money as an inheritance tax. The law of Utah provides that, after all expenses and debts have been paid and $10,000 besides deducted, which is exempt from the inheritance tax, the balance of the estate shall pay to the state five per cent of the valuation. In this event the state will get in the neighborhood of 5 per cent of over $4,000,000 or about $200,000.

To aid the appraisers in their efforts to learn the valuation of the estate, the administrator has furnished them with an inventory covering about 25 pages of typewritten data. Both personal property and real estate are listed, but the valuations are not given in full.

David Eccles at the time of his death, was identified with some fifty-six industrial corporations and twenty banking institutions, extending and operating in Utah, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Nevada, Wyoming, California, Colorado and Canada. In other words he was identified with a total of seventy-six industrial and banking corporations.

He was an officer in 47 corporations. He was president and director of sixteen industrial corporations and a director in twenty others. He was president and director of seven banking corporations and a director in four others.

Among the major enterprises with which he was connected as the president and a member of the board of directors are:

Amalgamated Sugar company, Lewiston Sugar company, Sumpter Valley Railway company, Ore., Utah Construction company, Oregon Lumber company, Ore.; Vineyard Land & Livestock company, Nevada; Promontory-Curlew Land company, First National bank of Ogden, Ogden Savings bank of Ogden, Lion Coal company, Wyoming, Wyoming Coal company, Wyo.; Ogden Rapid Transit company, Logan Rapid Transit company, and Eccles Lumber company.

Some of the more important corporations with which he was identified as a director are:

Utah-Idaho Sugar company, Deseret National bank of Salt Lake City, Deseret Savings bank of Salt Lake City, and Mount Hood Railroad company of Oregon.

When the Mormon church authorized its $1,000,000 bond issue several years ago David Eccles, in connection with L. S. Hills, were the trustees of same and negotiated this loan, he himself having carried $100,000 of this issue.

It has been said by his associates that he indeed was a masterful pioneer of industry and no doubt the foregoing substantiates this tribute. He was the pioneer and founder of twelve of the greatest corporations with which he was connected, twelve as president and one as director.

Stocks in Utah Corporations.

No. of Shares

Deseret National Bank..... 117

Deseret Savings Bank..... 70

First National Bank of Ogden..... 274

Ogden Savings Bank..... 25

First National Bank of Morgan..... 15

Utah State National Bank, Salt Lake City..... 80

Bank of Randolph..... 10

Nephi National Bank..... 10

Bank of Garland..... 10

Thatcher Bros. Banking Co..... 10

Bank of Richmond..... 38

Hyrum State Bank..... 50

State Bank of Brigham City..... 35

First National Bank of Murray..... 20

Farmers' Utah Loan Association, Logan..... 1,000

Utah Industrial Stocks.

No. of Shares

Utah Lumber Co., Salt Lake..... 210

Eccles Lumber Co..... 200

Bountiful Lumber & Bldg. Association..... 694

Thistle Lumber Co..... 554

Home Fire Insurance Co. of Utah..... 149

Anderson & Sons Co., Logan..... 590

Utah Consolidated Milk Co., Richmond Cache Valley..... 594

Austin & Sons Live Stock Co., Salt Lake City..... 100

Austin Brothers Association, Salt Lake City..... 445

Grand Opera House Co., Ogden..... 140

Amalgamated Sugar Co..... 5,413

Vineyard Land & Livestock Co., Utah corporation..... 3,125

Utah Corporation..... 264

Utah Implement-Vehicle Co., Salt Lake..... 1,056

Ogden Troy Steam Laundry..... 32

Utah Canning Co..... 50

COLORADO WOMAN SENATOR VISITS EAST; WILL AID SUFFRAGISTS AND STUDY CIVIC PROBLEMS AFFECTING WOMEN AND CHILDREN

Left to right: Mrs. Helen Ring Robinson, Rev. Anna Howard Shaw and Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw.

Senator Helen Ring Robinson of Colorado, the only woman senator this country ever had, is in the east just now. Primarily, her visit there is for the purpose of aiding the suffrage cause. Incidentally, she is studying civic housekeeping and problems affecting women and children as they appear in the east.

Among the prominent suffragists who urged Mrs. Robinson to make the eastern trip were Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw, leader of the suffragists in New York city, and Rev. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the National Suffrage Association.

cent, Nov. 16, 1912, Nov. 16, 1913—$10,000.

Austin Bros. Association, 7 per cent, Nov. 16, 1912, Nov. 16, 1913—$20,000.

Cash in First National Bank on deposit.....$22,000.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to express our sincere appreciation to the many friends who have shown such unflinching kindness and sympathy during the illness and recent death of our beloved daughter and sister Belva Rachel Canfield.

We wish also to extend our heartfelt thanks for the many beautiful floral offerings. (Signed) MR. AND MRS. I. C. CANFIELD AND FAMILY.

PROPERTY HAD BEEN SOLD FOR TAXES

On the recommendation of City Attorney Valentine Gideon, the city board of commissioners this morning authorized the auditor to draw a warrant in favor of Weber county to pay back taxes on property purchased of M. S. Browning by the city for reservoir purposes at South Fork, in the sum of $75.75.

In making abstract for the reservoir site at Cobble Creek, the Ogden River Reservoir company learned that some of the property had been sold for taxes and the attention of the commissioners was called to it.

City Engineer H. J. Craven presented the board with duplicate maps of the Hale addition and also the dedication of Chester street, leading east from Jefferson avenue, both of which was accepted and filed.

The J. P. O'Neill construction company was given a license to do business in the city, the bond of the company having been approved.

ONE CENT POSTAGE

Washington, May 20.—One-cent postage for letters after July 1, 1914, was proposed in a resolution today by Representative Rouse, of Kentucky.

Only British subjects will hereafter be employed by the Vancouver, B. C. school board.

MARKETS

New York Stock List. (Last Sale)

Amalgamated Copper..... 74 1-2

American Beet Sugar..... 23 1-2

American Cotton Oil..... 41

Amer. Smelt. Refining..... 67 1-4

American Sugar Refining..... 110

American Tel. & Tel..... 128 1-2

Anaconda Mining Co..... 37 3-4

Atlantic Coast Line..... 99 3-4

Baltimore & Ohio..... 98 3-8

Brooklyn Rapid Transit..... 91 5-8

Canadian Pacific..... 236 3-4

Chesapeake & Ohio..... 64 1-2

Chicago & Northwestern..... 129 1-2

Chicago, Mil. & St. Paul..... 107 5-8

Colorado Fuel & Iron..... 31 1-2

Colorado & Southern, bid..... 29

Delaware & Hudson, bid..... 152

Denver Rio Grande, bid..... 170 5-8

Erie..... 28 1-4

General Electric..... 139

Great Northern, pfd..... 126 5-8

Metals.

New York, May 20.—Copper—Steady. Spot to July, $16.25; electrolytic, $15.87 1/2 @ 16.00; lake, $16.00; castings, $15.62 1/2.

Tin—Quiet and easy. Spot and May, $47.62 1/2 @ 48.00; June, $47.25 @ 47.75; July, $46.87 1/2 @ 47.12 1/2.

Lead—Steady, $4.30 bid.

Spelter—Quiet, $5.35 @ 5.45.

Antimony—Dull, Cookson's $8.75 @ 9.00.

Iron—Quiet and unchanged.

Money.

New York, May 20.—Money on call steady, 2 1/2 @ 3 per cent; ruling rate, 2 3/4 per cent, closing bid, 2 5/8 per cent, offered at 2 3/4 per cent.

Time loans firm, 60 and 90 days, 4 per cent; six months, 4 1/2 @ 4 3/4 per cent.

Prime mercantile paper, 5 1/4 @ 5 1/2 per cent; sterling exchange steady with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.83 for 60-day bills and at $4.86.55 for 90-day.

Commercial bills, $4.82 1/2.

Bar silver, 60 7/8c.

Mexican dollars, 48c.

Government bonds firm; railroad bonds firm.

prettily laid table. After many games and lots of fun the tasteful lunch was served. Ice cream, cake, candies and all the luxuries the children so much enjoy were indulged in.

Miss Alice received many presents and was accordingly joyful.

SEGO LILY CLUB

Mrs. Lawrence Noble will be hostess to the ladies of Segoly Lily Thimble club at her home in the Corey apartments tomorrow afternoon.

KENSLE-NELSON.

Miss Myrtle Kensler and Walter Nelson were united in marriage at 11:00 a. m. today at the Corey home, 586 Twenty-sixth street, by Bishop H. C. Jacobs. Miss Kensler is a niece of Mrs. A. B. Corey and has a long list of young friends in the city, who offer congratulations. Mr. Nelson is a popular young Ogden man who is now employed at the Rex theater.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

CANFIELD—Funeral services for Belva R. Canfield were held yesterday afternoon in the Ninth ward meeting house. Bishop W. O. Ridges officiated. The speakers were Hyrum Shupe, Frank Richardson, President C. F. Middleton and David E. Steele. Ruby Fowler sang "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," while Mary Farley rendered "Oh My Father" and "Sometime We'll Understand." The interment was in Ogden City cemetery.

REID—The funeral of Hannah M. Reid was held this afternoon at 4:30 at the family residence, 2366 Kingsford avenue. Bishop Owen M. Kingston presiding. Burial in the City cemetery.

JENSEN—Mrs. Julia Wilhelmina Jensen, wife of Charles Jensen, died yesterday morning at 9:30 at the family residence, 2340 Jefferson avenue, of pleuro pneumonia. The deceased was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Iverson and was born in Huntsville June 1, 1875. She is survived by her husband and five children, Joseph, Hyrum, Lester, Maudie and Gordon. The family had been living in Eden up to six months ago, when the deceased was brought to Ogden for medical treatment.

Funeral services will be held in the Sixth Ward meeting house at 2 p. m. tomorrow. Bishop George Fuller of Eden presiding. The casket will be open this evening and tomorrow until 1:30 p. m. at Larkin's funeral chapel. Interment Ogden City cemetery.

PAETESCH—Ernest Paetesch, aged 40 years, died last evening at the Dee hospital. He was a resident of Mackey, Ida., and the body will be taken there for interment. He is survived by his widow, son and daughter.

LAFOR—The body of Ethel May Lafor, aged 22 years, who died at a local hospital Sunday, has been shipped to Fort Bridger, Wyo., for interment.

BROWN—The funeral services for Mrs. Celestia Jane Brown were held in the First ward meeting house this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Bishop D. H. Ensign being in charge. Interment in Ogden City cemetery.

APPLICATIONS TO BE MADE CITIZENS

Judge N. J. Harris, not being able to hear the naturalization calendar this morning Judge J. A. Howell considered the applications, admitting three to citizenship, continuing three and denying one, as follows:

John Ruzi, continued until July 22, to give time to get testimony from witnesses at Kemmerer, Wyo.

Louis Martini, admitted.

Nils Bonnavie Eckho, continued to July 22, to get depositions.

Richard De Kuyper, Sr., denied. It was learned that the applicant is a resident of Davis county and his application for citizenship will have to be made in that county.

Otto Fiet, continued to September, to give the applicant an opportunity to better familiarize himself with governmental questions.

Arthur Sparks and Charles William Swanson, admitted.

RECEPTION.

A reception in honor of the forty-ninth wedding anniversary of Mrs. Harriet Hadley was held yesterday at the home of Ezra Hadley in West Weber, forty relatives joining in the festivities.

Mrs. Hadley received a number of gifts in remembrance of the occasion.

B. Y. P. U. SOCIAL.

The young people of the First Baptist church will entertain in the church parlors tomorrow evening when a merry program of games, music and varied social diversions will be enjoyed.

Refreshments will be served under the capable direction of the B. Y. P. U. social committee.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. Alice Chandler entertained quite a number of young folks in honor of little Miss Alice's eighth birthday.

The home was beautifully decorated with ferns and carnations and two elegant birthday cakes graced the

BURTON'S TEST

BY WILL SELAT.

DELICATE party gown lay over the back of the chair. Anne Graham stood on the white rug, gazing dreamily into the open fire, when the doorbell rang.

The caller was Mrs. Trueblood, a near neighbor, and a trusted friend of the family.

"My dear, have you heard the news?" the good lady broke out excitedly, before she had fairly seated herself. "Morris Burton is back in town again! They say he's going to remodel the old homestead and settle down here."

Anne drew a quick, sharp breath. Morris Burton had left her five years before and eloped with a red-haired heiress on the morning of their wedding day.

"No, I hadn't heard," she answered after a moment.

"He'll be at the party tonight," Mrs. Trueblood went on quiveringly. "He's wedged Dr. Bliss that he'll prove, before the evening is over, that you're as much in love with him as ever! How perfectly outrageous!"

Whatever Anne may have felt, she was surprisingly calm. "Thank you for telling me," was all she vouchsafed.

"Of course you'll stay at home tonight!"

"No. Why should I? I must meet

Morris sooner or later. I've heard," she added musingly, "that his rich wife died last summer and left him all her money."

Mrs. Trueblood looked at Anne curiously as she rose to go. Was the dear girl going to make a fool of herself again over the handsome scamp?

The minute Anne found herself alone she went straight to a cedar chest in the alcove and gently lifted out a white satin gown that had lain there for five years.

There was a half-defiant impulse to put it on and meet her faithless lover thus arrayed; but she presently laid the glittering robe back again in its sweet-smelling receptacle.

Mrs. Payton's rooms were full to overflowing when Anne arrived upon the scene. A quick interchange of glances as she entered told her that she was an object of speculative interest to the assembled guests.

For just one burning moment she felt like turning back, but Prof. Lawson was coming toward her. He seemed a tower of strength and her courage revived.

And then, for a second, her heart stopped beating. "By the way, Miss Graham," the professor said with seeming carelessness, "an old friend of yours is here tonight—Morris Burton of New York. Perhaps you had heard."

"Se he knew the old story? Of course—it had been town talk!"

"Yes, Mrs. Trueblood told me," she replied, recognizing the kindly impulse that had led him to give her timely warning. "It is five years since Mr. Burton went away. I wonder if he is much changed."

She was outwardly composed, and Professor Lawson drew a breath of relief. Whether the meeting would be an ordeal of not, he need fear no weak betrayal on her part.

And yet Anne's limbs trembled under her as she slipped away into the crowd. She could not have told which feeling predominated, dread or longing.

Suddenly some words came to her ears from behind a screen of palms.

"Everybody is wondering if Anne has remained single on Morris Burton's account. We will soon know."

"She won't speak to him if she has a particle of pride," was the spirited response. "But women are such fools!"

Anne hurried on with burning cheeks. Suddenly a group of acquaintances parted before her, and she was face to face with her old lover. In a hushed silence she held out her hand as if they had parted on the friendliest terms.

"Welcome home, Mr. Burton."

He flushed with surprise and gratification. There was no pretense of resentment. But then she had been very much in love with him. Of course she knew his wife was dead, and there was no barrier between them. His water was as good as won!

"Thank you, Anne, for this kind reception," he said with a complacent smirk. "It's just what I expected. Do you know, I came tonight extra-ly to see you. Let's find a quiet corner where we can talk."

Anne accepted his proffered arm. He looked down at her curiously. She had more than fulfilled the promise of girlhood. She had a womanly dignity, an air of conscious strength far more attractive than mere beauty.

He pressed, leaning over her in a very lover-like way. "Is it possible that you have forgiven me?"

"I forgave you long ago," she replied sweetly.

"I played you a shabby trick," "Let's forget all about it."

"O, can you do that? I dared not forget it," he cried, his handsome head drooping more and more. He was tempted to seize one of her hands and carry it to his lips. This close companionship vividly recalled those other days, the happiest—he had to confess it to himself—of his life.

He and Anne went together, or ly to see you. Let's find a quiet corner where we can talk."

Anne accepted his proffered arm. He looked down at her curiously. She had more than fulfilled the promise of girlhood. She had a womanly dignity, an air of conscious strength far more attractive than mere beauty.

He pressed, leaning over her in a very lover-like way. "Is it possible that you have forgiven me?"

"I forgave you long ago," she replied sweetly.

"I played you a shabby trick," "Let's forget all about it."

"O, can you do that? I dared not forget it," he cried, his handsome head drooping more and more. He was tempted to seize one of her hands and carry it to his lips. This close companionship vividly recalled those other days, the happiest—he had to confess it to himself—of his life.

He and Anne went together, or ly to see you. Let's find a quiet corner where we can talk."

Anne accepted his proffered arm. He looked down at her curiously. She had more than fulfilled the promise of girlhood. She had a womanly dignity, an air of conscious strength far more attractive than mere beauty.

He pressed, leaning over her in a very lover-like way. "Is it possible that you have forgiven me?"

"I forgave you long ago," she replied sweetly.

"I played you a shabby trick," "Let's forget all about it."

"O, can you do that? I dared not forget it," he cried, his handsome head drooping more and more. He was tempted to seize one of her hands and carry it to his lips. This close companionship vividly recalled those other days, the happiest—he had to confess it to himself—of his life.

He and Anne went together, or ly to see you. Let's find a quiet corner where we can talk."

Anne accepted his proffered arm. He looked down at her curiously. She had more than fulfilled the promise of girlhood. She had a womanly dignity, an air of conscious strength far more attractive than mere beauty.

He pressed, leaning over her in a very lover-like way. "Is it possible that you have forgiven me?"

"I forgave you long ago," she replied sweetly.

"I played you a shabby trick," "Let's forget all about it."

"O, can you do that? I dared not forget it," he cried, his handsome head drooping more and more. He was tempted to seize one of her hands and carry it to his lips. This close companionship vividly recalled those other days, the happiest—he had to confess it to himself—of his life.